DECLARATION OF SPECIAL MASTER

COMES NOW, Edgar C. Gentle, III, and, after being duly sworn, states the following under oath, based upon his direct knowledge.

I. BACKGROUND AND QUALIFICATIONS

I am the Court-appointed Special Master in this matter. I am charged by the Court with collecting and auditing records of Subscriber Track Counsel common benefit attorney capital contributions, and Subscriber Track Counsel submitted records of held expenses and time.

In performing these tasks, I have the help of the following personnel in my firm:

Terry D. Turner, Jr., Esq. Katherine A. Harbison Benson, Esq. Mr. Joseph L. Roberta, CPA Ms. Jennifer L. Newby, CPA

My resume and the resumes of the above personnel are in Exhibit A.

We also complied with the Court's May 31, 2013 Order regarding Court protocols for Plaintiffs' Counsel time and expense submissions.

The purpose of this Declaration is to describe the methods we employed and the results in this process, for Subscriber Track Counsel capital contributions to date, and for Subscriber Track Counsel time and held expenses for the period ended August 15, 2020 (the "Litigation Period").

I. Capital Contributions

A. Subscriber Fund Attorney Capital Contribution Calls

We made periodic capital calls to Subscriber Track Counsel, to pay for common benefit expenses of the case, and based on agreed capital call shares. Once capital call letters are sent to Subscriber attorneys on a designated date, an Excel spreadsheet is prepared which lists each Subscriber attorney and the capital contributions assigned to them for that particular capital call. Subscriber attorneys can remit their capital contributions via wire transfer, check or ACH deposit. Each capital call letter contains wire instructions for the Subscriber Fund's checking account, which is maintained at Wells Fargo Bank. This checking account is enrolled in the Commercial Electronic Office ("CEO") Portal at Wells Fargo Bank, which provides us with online access to the account. Through CEO, we have set up alerts to notify us, via email, of any incoming wires or ACH deposits to the checking account. As Subscriber attorneys send their capital contributions via wire transfer or ACH deposit, we receive an email from Wells Fargo Bank that notifies us of an incoming deposit to the account, and it also provides the amount and originating party, which ensures that the proper attorney is given credit for the contribution. We can then log onto CEO to view activity in the checking account and confirm the incoming wire. Subscriber attorneys can also choose to remit their capital contributions via check, with such checks either being mailed directly to our office or sent to Chris Hellums' office, who will then forward them to our office for deposit into the checking account.

Once a capital contribution has been received, either electronically or by check, a memorandum to the file is prepared which notes the capital call to which the deposit relates, the name of the payor (usually a Subscriber attorney firm), the amount paid, and the date payment was received. A copy of the check or online report from CEO detailing the wire transfer is attached to the memorandum, and the memorandum is then included in a Subscriber Fund deposit subfile in chronological order. The deposit index is a listing of all deposits into the Subscriber Fund, noting the date of deposit, the party making the deposit, the amount of the deposit, and what capital call the deposit relates to.

Once a deposit is recorded in the Subscriber Fund deposit index, it is then recorded in the Excel spreadsheet for the respective capital call. The spreadsheet contains a column for deposits, with each deposit being subtracted from the amount assigned to the Subscriber attorney, resulting in the balance due column showing zero or any balance that might be left. There is also a spreadsheet column that lists the name of the payor, which is normally a Subscriber attorney firm. With there being a separate spreadsheet for each Subscriber Fund capital call, we can easily provide status updates that show which attorneys haven't yet made their capital contributions. This is especially helpful when we have to reallocate unpaid capital contributions among attorneys who elected to make additional capital contributions, based on an agreed reallocation process. Following the reassignment of any unpaid capital contributions among Subscriber attorneys, the spreadsheet will be adjusted, removing amounts from attorneys who elected not to contribute and increasing the amounts due from attorneys who elected to pay extra. Once all extra capital contributions are received, the balance due column will be zero, signifying that the capital call has been fully paid.

It should be noted that, prior to any contribution amounts being reassigned among Subscriber attorneys, reminder notices are sent to attorneys who have a balance due on the capital call spreadsheet. If a contribution was received, but somehow attributed to the wrong attorney, the attorney receiving the reminder notice would notify us that they paid their capital contribution and this would trigger us to research the payment and get it assigned to the proper attorney. This safeguard should not be necessary, as contributions are easily assigned to attorneys based on the payor listed on the check or the wire transfer detail provided through alerts from CEO, but it is helpful to have an extra layer of security in the recording process.

B. Cumulative Subscriber Fund Attorney Capital Contribution Call Spreadsheet

After a spreadsheet is created for each individual capital call, this information is added to a spreadsheet that tracks the cumulative capital contributions for Subscriber attorneys. This spreadsheet contains a column for each capital call, which lists the amounts assigned to each attorney, as well as a column for each capital call that shows contributions received from each attorney. As capital contributions are received and recorded in the deposit index and individual capital call spreadsheets, they are also recorded on the cumulative capital call spreadsheet. This spreadsheet provides a quick snapshot of total capital contributions made since inception of the Subscriber Fund for each Subscriber attorney and for the Subscriber Fund as a whole. When unpaid capital contributions are reassigned on an individual capital call spreadsheet, they are also updated on the cumulative capital call spreadsheet to ensure they are in agreement with each other.

C. Capital Contributions Attributable to Each Attorney

We also maintain a report that provides an itemized list, per attorney, of all capital contributions made on behalf of each attorney from inception of the Subscriber Fund. Each Subscriber attorney will be listed, followed by the party that paid in each contribution on their behalf, which will normally be the Subscriber attorney firm they were associated with at the time. This could be especially useful for attorneys that have changed law firms since the initial capital call in July 2013 or have arrangements in place with other attorneys or firms to pay the capital contributions assigned to them. This information could even be sent to Subscriber attorneys to act as a confirmation of their accumulated capital contributions since inception.

D. Recording of Capital Contributions in Quickbooks

After capital contributions have been appropriately recorded in the deposit index and the various capital call spreadsheets, they are then recorded in Quickbooks, which is the accounting software used for financial reporting. The deposits for capital contributions are input into the checking account from the detail in the deposit index, which ensures that deposit information from our various capital call spreadsheets is in agreement with the information in our financial reporting software. The checking account is reconciled in Quickbooks with the bank statement received from Wells Fargo Bank on a monthly basis.

E. Compilation of Capital Contributions by Law Firm to Date

As presented in the spreadsheet in Exhibit B, a total of $37,088,369.52 in capital contributions have been made by Subscriber Track Counsel as of the conclusion of the last capital call of March 16, 2021. In addition, at May 26, 2021, your Special Master has paid $35,380,737.62 in Subscriber Track expenses from the Subscriber Fund since its inception.

II. Held Expenses and Attorney Time

A. Monthly Time and Expenses Submissions

On a monthly basis, each Subscriber law firm submits its time and expenses to Boies Schiller Flexner. These submissions include a summary sheet for both time and expenses, and should also include all back-up documentation (i.e timesheets for the hours, and receipts and invoices for the expenses.) Monthly time and expense reports should also be submitted, even if time and/or expenses are zero.

In accordance with the May 31, 2013 Order Regarding Protocols for Plaintiffs' Counsel Time and Expense Submissions (the "Order"), the monthly submissions are due to Boies Schiller Flexner by the end of the month following the reporting month (i.e. July submissions are due no later than August 31). Due to some firms not timely submitting their time and expenses, a policy was added whereby time and/or expenses submitted 90 days outside of the deadline listed in the Order may be classified as Late, and held separately, to be addressed later.

Once Boies Schiller Flexner has received all the monthly submissions, they prepare a summary spreadsheet reflecting the monthly time and expenses for all firms, and submits it, along with all the back-up documentation, to Chris Hellums at Pittman Dutton Hellums Bradley & Mann. Chris Hellums reviews the information to make sure it is complete. If any corrections are needed or back-up documentation is missing, he makes those requests to Boies Schiller Flexner.

Once Chris Hellums has completed his review, made adjustments, and/or received any additional back-up documentation, he sends the concise monthly summary time and expense spreadsheet to us as the Special Master. From this information, we prepare the Report to the Court reflecting the unaudited time and expenses for the specific month. In addition to the time and expenses, we also include certain Common Benefit Fund information on the Report to the Court. This includes the capital contributions we have received through the date of the Report, as well as the net accrued expenses through the previous month end. We also prepare a color bar graph that shows the correlation between submitted time and expenses and the capital contributions, for contributing firms.

B. Time and Held Expenses Audits

Based on the terms set forth in the Order, Audits are periodically performed for all periods, and have been completed for all periods through the Litigation Period.

For the period being audited, we send a list of selected Subscriber law firms to Chris Hellums for his review. He occasionally will add firms based on questions arising during his review of the monthly submissions.

During the Audit, using the terms within the Order, we select a sample of timesheet entries to review for the submitted hours, and for the expenses, we review the submitted back-up documentation. For time submissions, hours are required to be reported in 1/10th of an hour increments and time entries should include a detailed description of the work performed, as well as a billing code. If there are multiple tasks billed in one day, the tasks should be either listed separately or include the time per task. Tasks with separate billing codes should be listed separately. For expenses, we verify that the submitted expenses are reimbursable and they have provided back-up documentation that conforms to the terms of the Order. The following expenses, not listed in the Order, were added and are reimbursable when back-up documentation is provided: Internet charges while traveling, books and reference materials, and color copies at a maximum of $.50 per copy.

After performing our audit procedures, when necessary, we make audit adjustments to both hours and expenses. Some examples of audit adjustments for hours, though usually not prevalent, relate to time billed in other than 1/10th increments, time entries lacking a description of the work performed, block billing (one time entry for multiple tasks), excessive hours billed repeatedly, especially for document review time, and reclassifications for billing codes related to document review work and travel. Some examples of audit adjustments for expenses relate to the lack of required back-up documentation, duplicate expenses, expenses not incurred within the audit period, and expenses not reimbursable under the terms of the Order.

At the completion of the Audit for a given period, we prepare a Summary Sheet reflecting the submitted time and expenses, along with the audit adjustments, and adjusted totals. We also prepare individual Firm Reports detailing audit adjustments and noting any other issues requiring attention. A corresponding written memo detailing the procedures of the Audit, and our Audit findings is also prepared.

After approval, the Audit results memo and all the supporting documents are submitted to Chris Hellums, and his office forwards the Individual Firm Reports to each Subscriber law firm. The firms are allowed a period of time to provide responses and/or additional documentation regarding any adjustments. After our review of Subscriber law firm responses, any necessary adjustments are made and the Final Firm Reports are prepared and submitted to Chris Hellums for forwarding to the Subscriber law firms for their records. We also ask him to forward the Firm Reports to Boies Schiller Flexner, so he may make adjustments to his records. Additionally, a Report to the Court reflecting the Final audited totals is prepared and submitted to the Court.

Once the case began to settle, we reached out to Boies Schiller Flexner to reconcile all the audited time and held expenses from the case's inception through August 15, 2020, when the Litigation Period ended. This reconciliation was done to ensure that the billing information provided to the Court by us coincided with the detailed records maintained by Boies Schiller Flexner, and the billing information in the Fee Application is accurate. Boies Schiller Flexner maintains a separate, cumulative spreadsheet for both hours and held expenses. On a monthly basis, Boies Schiller Flexner adds the law firm time and expenses as they are submitted by the law firms. After each Special Master Audit, Boies Schiller Flexner updates its records to reflect our Audit adjustments. When the case began to settle, Boies Schiller Flexner provided both cumulative spreadsheets (time and expenses) to us and we compared those amounts with the audited amounts that were submitted to the Court (See Special Master time and expenses spreadsheet in Exhibit C). There were a few small discrepancies between the Boies Schiller Flexner and Special Master time and expenses spreadsheets, and such discrepancies were researched by month and resolved. After all adjustments were made, Boies Schiller Flexner submitted an updated time and expenses spreadsheet to us (See Exhibit D). As shown in Exhibit E, which is a comparison of the Boies Schiller Flexner and Special Master time and expenses spreadsheets, the totals for both time and held expenses are equal.

Held expenses and time by law firm for the Litigation Period are provided in the spreadsheet in Exhibit C. For Warren Burns, after the audit of his submitted held expenses, a total of $625,924.72 in held Litigation Period expenses was approved.
